Press Release

The Treeshakers* headlining this Sunday's Summer Concert Series at Schenck's Island 5:00-7:00 pm

The Treeshakers will take the audience at Schenck's Island in Wilton Center from a whisper to a roar and back again playing soulful and popular cover tunes spanning genres for all ages. This Roots-Rock Americana band has been entertaining crowds since 2017. Wilton resident Donna Savage is the frontwoman for the band, along with other Wilton residents James Konatsotis, on guitar and vocals; Jack Jackson, guitar and vocals, and Lorenzo Diurno, bass and vocals; as well as Park and Rec's own Mike Pirre from Bethel on drums and vocals; and Fairfield's Ted Eyes on keyboard. They are not to be missed.

Last week's crowd included many long time Wilton residents and also new to town residents who all came out to enjoy this great summer tradition.

Come enjoy some great music by local talent! Attendance is free. Bring a blanket and chairs. Parking isn't available at Schenck's. Instead, park in the Center and arrive early to grab take-out from Wilton's nearby restaurants. Additional seating is available across the river at the Chess Park. In case of inclement weather, please call (203) 454-5188.

For questions about the Wilton Summer Concert Series, please contact Parks and Recreation Director Steve Pierce at steve.pierce@wiltonct.org.
