Hi Mr. Conklin – We do certainly appreciate the updated presentation of the pushed out date.

We certainly have since August/September been contacting along with my and other landscapers for the tree species native to CT.

We can provide the 20 or so nursery names contacted up and down the North to South and as far as Ohio and Indiana.

No one has the size of the 5-6 feet. Given the maintenance requirement needed, partial sun and the numbers required the height available is only 2 feet or potted.

A tree of partial sun is important given the replacement position and the current tree canopy.

We cannot go the full sun root as the replant success rate would be less than the 80% given it is not in a full sun space that is required.

We are certainly not waiting for them to come to us, we have a very active search and nursery e-mail alerts.

This farm distributor gave me a direct farm contact who noted the availability and we the distributor was able to make the sale.

The farm then noted to the distributor it would not be able to dig a week later. The charge was promptly refunded, no hassle.

Hence my request for the first extension given their promised delivery time of end October is now asked to change as it is not achievable.

We can switch out to the Thuja Green Giant if that is permissible. However that is not our first choice and would appreciate if we could wait.

Ms. Griffin – I will present your email to the Inland Wetland Commission at their meeting on Thursday evening. Since the commission has already granted an extension on this matter, I would recommend you work with nursery's or a contractor that can utilize a local wholesaler to provide you with the trees this fall. This is the guidance they gave another permittee who recently was unable to obtain trees from the same internet seller you have contacted.

Thank you,

Mike Conklin

Good Morning Wilton Inlands Wetlands

The Vendor that deals with the Farms has changed their dates again.

Please let me know if this can be presented.

The tree Bond is in, but the timing has been pushed.

My understanding is that they do not have the tradesmen to dig and it has pushed all their contracts/PO's out.

Thank you
