Thank you for your interest in opening or expanding a business in Wilton, Connecticut. The opening of a new or expanded business will require various levels of review by a variety of town departments. Some of these reviews are straightforward requiring little of your time while other reviews and approvals are more involved, depending on your type of business, legal structure, planned construction activity and site location.

We have prepared this Guide to Opening or Expanding a Business in Wilton, CT to help you navigate through your project. The guide provides a step-by-step checklist, identifies other things you may need to do before opening your business, and provides contact information for various Town departments. Additional public information with links to specific properties may be obtained by visiting Wilton’s GIS Service.

Whether your business is large or small, the Town of Wilton prides itself in providing a high level of customer service - all of which is designed to foster a safe, functional and attractive project.

We look forward to working with you.

3 Land Use Commission Approvals, if required

Certain projects entailing new or expanded commercial construction or site alteration may require review and approval from one or more of the town’s land use commissions:

- Inland Wetlands Commission
- Planning and Zoning Commission
- Zoning Board of Appeals
- Village District Consultant Committee

This would require the submittal of professionally prepared architectural drawings, property survey and engineering plans when physically expanding a building or parking area or altering a commercial site.

The Planning and Zoning Department can help you determine required land use approvals for your project.
4 Administrative Review

- Administrative review is required for new construction and, depending on the use and scope of activity, may be required for the occupancy of commercial space.

  - For new or expanded construction, you would engage professionals to prepare building and architectural plans, site plans and a survey. The level of detail will vary depending on the nature of the use and the extent of work to be undertaken. Site plans and surveys should be consistent with any plans approved by one or more of the above noted land use commissions.

  - Internal construction/renovation or occupancy of existing space is oftentimes less involved, but will require you submit detailed plans to demonstrate compliance with any applicable building, zoning, health and/or fire codes.

- Start the process in the Building Department where you will be provided with a General Land Use Checklist indicating required approvals by various departments which may include:

  - Tax Collector
  - Fire Department
  - Building Department
  - Health Department
  - Environmental Affairs
  - Planning & Zoning
  - Department of Public Works

Please be advised each department will have its own plan review timetable. Check with specific department(s) for details.
